

EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT OBERON BIOFEEDBACK

Diana Brown

What is OBERON Biofeedback?

OBERON BIOFEEDBACK is a RUSSIAN NLS system. NLS systems are originally from and are primarily manufactured in Russia. NLS stands for Non-Linear Systems. “Non-Linear” refers to the fact that these systems are non-invasive, not harmful and do not allow for interference of other existing frequencies.

(Since 2014, when the war between Russia and Ukraine rated, we have slowly been moving manufacturing into the USA and now in 2023 Oberon is manufactured in the USA)

- Oberon Biofeedback is an NLS Biofeedback system which uses a headset for scanning and therapy.
- The headset has a trigger sensor on each side which triggers the brain to pick up frequencies of tissues/organs and cells in the body. The way this works is primarily through the utilization of the central nervous system. Neurons traveling down the spine send signals from the brain which are triggered by the headset worn on the head of a person. As long as there is a working connection between the brain and spine, the frequencies of organs and tissues can be recorded and interpreted by the software. By “frequencies”, we are referring to the electromagnetic resonance that is generated by the rotation of the atoms in the cells which create these specific frequencies representing the state of the organ or tissue in real time.

What are Frequencies again?

According to quantum entropy logic theory; informational exchange between systems is carried out distantly, associatively, and selectively due to electromagnetic radiation and quantum energy. Principles of entropy logic theory allow us to affirm that in physical systems during informational exchange appear unstable (metastable) when possibility of their destruction is increased greatly.

- OBERON system operates on the principle of initiating signal amplification at destruction of metastable structures. Under the influence of external electromagnetic fields, the magnetic movements of molecular currents of the accessory centers of the neurocytes of the crust of brain, lose their pristine orientation which disorder the spin frames of the delocalized electrons, which is the reason of occurrence therein of unstable metastable states, which disintegration plays the role of the amplifier of the initiation signal.
- From the physical point of view the system represents electronic oscillators (cadasters), resounding on a wavelength which energy is adequate to the energy of destruction of the predominant links supporting the structural architecture of the examined organism. The information about a particular condition of a biological object is read noninvasively by digital trigger sensor, which was developed using modern information technologies and micro circuitry catching weak fluctuations of the signals, evolved out of average statistical noise characteristics of the fields, and converted into a digital sequence, processed with the help of a microprocessor for transmitting it via interface cable to the computer.

The screenshot shows a control panel for a medical device. At the top, there are buttons for 'Exit', 'FT245R', 'Firmata', and 'Setup'. Below these are six colored indicator lights (black, pink, grey, green, blue, red) and two buttons labeled 'Physio' and 'Meta'. A digital display shows '01 13 57 117'. Below the display is a list titled 'spc NAME' with one entry: 'SINUSITIS. SINUSITIS (28 M)'. Another list titled 'lst days' shows a single entry '1'. At the bottom, there is a text area containing medical information: 'Treatment of catarrhal sinusitis with quantum therapy should be combined with reception of multivitamins. As a rule improvements come already after one course by means of Introscon device. Blue and red radiations modulated with bioresonant frequencies included in a given therapy program stimulate protective forces of an organism, strengthen the effect of laser therapy and traditional treatment. Antritis is a mucous membrane inflammation of the maxillary sinus (genyantrum). There is acute and chronic antritis. Acute antritis often develops as a complication of an acute'.

How Does OBERON Scan Accurately?

OBERON Biofeedback software has an extended database to include frequencies of all disease, viruses', bacteria's, parasites, heavy metals, emotions, toxins, specific disorders, etc. This database was collected over a period of many years and studies with thousands of human beings.

- Each of the recorded conditions has a specific frequency which is identified by name and development stage in the organ or tissue. This incredible database is what makes up the cost of the machine and why buying an authentic machine is so important.

- If after scanning the liver for example, we see that the liver frequency (resonance wave) is “similar” to that of a specific microorganism, we know that microorganism is affecting the organ. We can confirm the finding with an additional test (making the device 95-98% accurate).

1. OBERON Provides a “Diagnostic” Full Body Scan

OBERON is NOT FDA approved and we do NOT want or seek FDA approval. Therefore, we call Oberon diagnosis an “analysis” process rather than “diagnostic”.

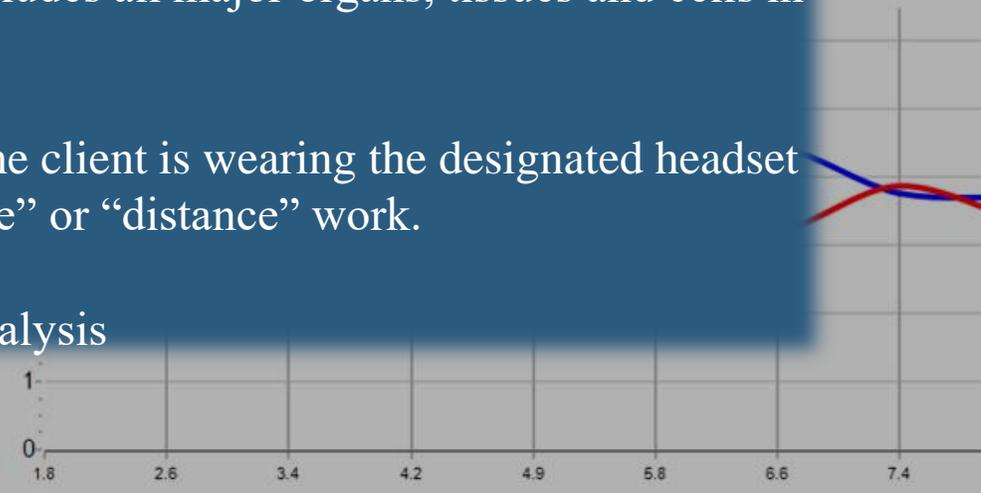

- Nevertheless, a full body scan consists of a scan which includes all major organs, tissues and cells in the body. This is always the first step in the user process.
- A full body scan takes 17-20 minutes and happens while the client is wearing the designated headset or while a DNA sample is attached to the headset for “remote” or “distance” work.
- Oberon software has over 10,000 “topics/subjects” for analysis

What are “Topics/Subjects” for analysis?

- Topics are the available “subjects” of analysis in Oberon. While pathology and microorganisms are the beginning focus of Oberon analysis, there are over 10,000 available topics for analysis besides Pathology and Microorganisms!!!
- Allergens, food intolerances, heavy metals, environmental toxins, genetic disorders, emotions, etc. are just a few others available in the software.

2. OBERON collects the generated information into a report

Previous software models required that each scanned organ is analyzed by hand. Now, Oberon automatically can create a report of all the found concerns for ease of creating a treatment protocol!

- At the completion of a full body scan, one must generate a report and follow its findings to create a personal treatment protocol based on the findings.

- There are 5+ report options!

- Oberon software comes with a feature to create homeopathic medicine.

- Remedies can be made to balance an organ, to help fight off infection or to support the organ while other therapies are implemented.

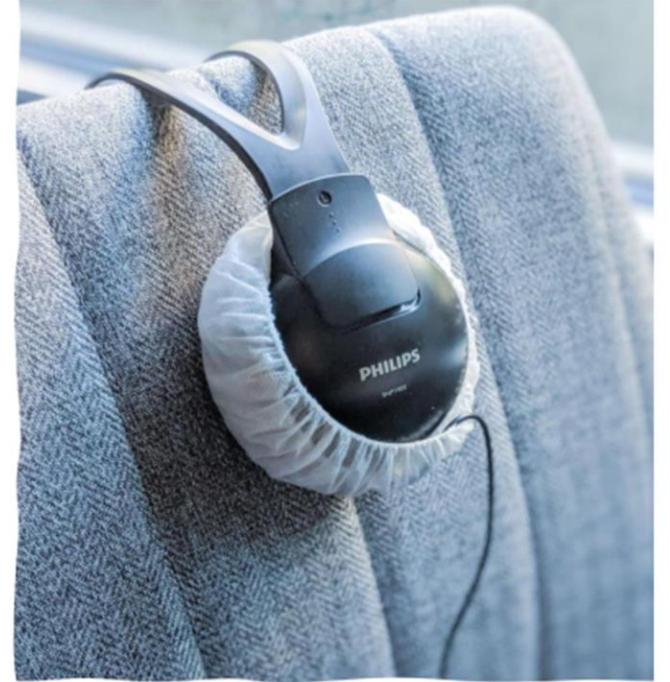

- Remedies can be made against specific found problems or as general remedies to support the treatment protocol in place.

5. Remote Scanning & therapy

Oberon is a non-invasive device which requires consistent therapy to see lasting results. Often, clients who see a practitioner with Oberon are unable to come into the office for therapies 3 times a week or more.

- Our solution: Distance scanning and therapy utilizing DNA samples of blood, hair or nail clippings. Quantum entanglement theory makes this possible and our users confirm!
